LiWoLi is an open lab focusing on Free/Open Source Software (FOSS), Open Hardware and open contents in digital art and culture. LiWoLi 2010 raises the question of whether a practice of “doing it together” (DIT) might be a more successful formula for developing free tools (FOSS tools) for art & culture, learning & teaching. This also implies examining the motivation of active producers and making room for the aspect of “unpaid work”. For anyone interested in these subjects, participation in the entire program is free.
